

Partners

Matthias Brunner

Statistics and IT

Matthias Brunner (1968) is the founder and director of DataDoxa. He is specialized in survey design and data analysis. He has completed a MA in Political Science in the University of Geneva and and has been lecturer at the Department of Political Science of the University of Geneva, and research associate at the Graduate Institute of Development Studies.

Matthias is the founder and director of DataDoxa, a company based in Geneva and specialized in surveys, opinion polls and IT developments related to data collection and analysis. Since 2002 Matthias is a partner of Covalence and as such he collaborated intensively with Covalence for designing and developing the data collection and IT tools of the company. DataDoxa runs Covalence's IT infrastructure and maintains and develops its software and websites.

